

Duality of Interest Form

Authors submitting manuscripts for possible publication in the Canadian Journal of Dental Hygiene must declare any competing interests they may have in their submission, and complete this form in the interests of transparency. Competing interests may be financial, personal or consultative. The intent of this disclosure is to help readers form their own assessments of potential bias in the manuscript.

In cases where the authors declare a competing financial interest, a short statement to that effect is published at the end of the article in an acknowledgements section. If no such statement is present in their submission, the authors have declared to the editors of the journal that they do not have any competing interests.

Manuscript title: .....

Name of corresponding author: .....
(Each author must complete and sign this form, making photocopies if needed).

Please check as applicable:

Table with 3 columns: Item, Yes, No. Rows include Employment, Membership (on any advisory panel, board of directors or committee), Stock shareholder (mutual funds or investment trusts do not constitute a competing financial interest), Honorarium or consulting fee, Grant or research support.

Author:.....

Signature.....

Date:.....